February 7, 2025

Key Facts

- FIS won the Lending Operations – LOS (Loan Origination Systems) category in the 2025 Chartis RiskTech100 ranking report for the second year in a row and is positioned among the industry leaders in two new Chartis report RiskTech Quadrants.
- FIS also received five “Category Leader” designations in Chartis’ 2024 Credit Lending Operations Report.
- These accolades illustrate FIS’ market-leading position in lending and credit risk technology and recognize its ability to manage the entire lending life cycle for global banks, local credit unions, nonbank financial institutions and more.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Feb. 7, 2025-- FIS® (NYSE: FIS), a global leader in financial technology, today announced a host of new recognitions from Chartis Research for its portfolio of lending and credit risk solutions. FIS won the Lending Operations – LOS (Loan Origination Systems) category in the 2025 Chartis RiskTech100 ranking report for the second year in a row, was positioned among industry leaders in two new Chartis report RiskTech Quadrants and was named a “Category Leader” five times in Chartis' 2024 Credit Lending Operations Report.

FIS Commercial Loan Origination, FIS Enterprise Risk Suite, FIS Commercial Lending Suite, and FIS Loan Services were all recognized by Chartis as leaders in their respective categories.

“Today’s lenders are a key part of helping businesses navigate this continually evolving economy, but fragmented technology and legacy systems create operational disharmony and can hold lenders back from providing the best solutions for their borrowers,” noted Steve Sabin, head of Lending Solutions at FIS. “These awards and recognitions underscore our commitment to breaking down roadblocks in this space, ultimately improving efficiencies for our clients.”

FIS is successful in its ability to deliver solutions that span the entire money life cycle, whether money is at rest in deposit accounts, in motion through payments, or at work through investing and lending. With these accolades and recognitions, Chartis is showcasing FIS’ ability to manage entire lending life cycles in the money-in-motion pillar and is highlighting FIS’ commitment to unlocking financial technology to the world.

In Chartis' 2024 Credit Lending Operations Report, FIS also received multiple “Category Leader” commendations and “Industry-Leading” capability scores for several RiskTech Quadrants, illustrating the market-leading position held by FIS’ Commercial Lending Suite, Securities Finance Trading and Collateral Platform, Private Capital Suite, and its private credit suite of products.

“FIS was a category leader in all quadrants in Chartis’ Credit Lending Operations report for 2024 and won the award for best Loan Origination System in our RiskTech100 2025 ranking and report. This reflects continued expansion of its product coverage, supported by an appropriate technology infrastructure and deep domain expertise in the credit lending space,” said Anish Shah, research director at Chartis. “This notable expansion has occurred throughout the credit management and lending operations life cycle, starting with the key process of loan origination and covering credit portfolio management and the entire loan management workflow.”
