

FIS Earns Top Rankings in Two Chartis Reports, Cementing Position as Capital Markets Technology Leader

June 19, 2026

Key facts

- FIS has been ranked #1 in the Chartis BuySideRisk50, also claiming category wins for Breadth of Functionality, Strategy, Wealth Management, and Managed Services.
- FIS has been named a Category Leader in the Chartis RiskTech Quadrant® for client lifecycle management (CLM) Solutions for Corporate and Investment Banking (CIB), 2026, earning the highest policy management score of any vendor evaluated.
- These recognitions validate FIS's strategy of delivering compliance technology that spans the full investment lifecycle, from pre-trade risk and portfolio analytics to client onboarding and regulatory controls.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Jun. 19, 2026-- FIS® (NYSE: FIS) has been ranked No. 1 overall in the Chartis BuySideRisk50 and named a Category Leader in the Chartis RiskTech Quadrant® for client lifecycle management (CLM) Solutions for Corporate and Investment Banking (CIB), 2026, earning the highest policy management score of any vendor among the 14 evaluated. These recognitions establish FIS as the compliance technology provider of choice for buy-side institutions. With organizations facing growing regulatory complexity across the full investment lifecycle, buy-side institutions increasingly need a provider that spans pre-trade risk, portfolio analytics, and client onboarding, without stitching together point solutions.

The Chartis BuySideRisk50 ranks the 50 leading vendors of buy-side analytics. FIS ranked No. 1 overall and led four of the five scoring criteria, including outright wins in Breadth of Functionality and Strategy. It also earned category awards in Wealth Management, and Managed Services for Convertibles and Equity-Linked Instruments. Together, these recognitions reflect the depth of FIS's Cross Asset Trading and Risk (CATR) suite, which brings together cross-asset trading, portfolio and risk management, pricing, and analytics to support complex trading and investment strategies.

In the Chartis CLM Solutions 2026 report, FIS was positioned in the Category Leader quadrant for CIB, a designation reserved for vendors that demonstrate strength across the broadest set of capabilities while showing clear execution of core strategy and innovation. FIS received the highest policy management score among all 14 vendors evaluated, reflecting its ability to deliver automated policy updates, customizable compliance frameworks, and dynamic risk-based enforcement embedded directly into client onboarding workflows. Helping to solidify its spot in the top quadrant are FIS's capabilities in fund services, an area of growing strategic focus for financial institutions managing complex client structures and multi-jurisdictional requirements.

Andrés Choussy, President, Capital Markets, FIS said: "Compliance is no longer a discrete function that sits at either end of the investment lifecycle. As financial institutions expand into private assets, credit markets, and more complex client structures, the need for comprehensive compliance across the investment lifecycle and regulatory controls is becoming a defining factor in technology selection. FIS's performance across both the BuySideRisk50 and the CLM quadrant reflects the investment we have made to deliver for our clients where it matters most."

"FIS's No. 1 placing in our BuySideRisk50 ranking reflects several key capabilities that the company brings to this space," said Sid Dash, Chief Researcher at Chartis. "Crucially, its breadth of services, tools and platform functionality enable it to address the needs of a wide variety of buy-side players, from private credit providers and traditional asset managers through to specialist hedge funds."
