

FIS Modern Slavery Act Transparency Statement

Financial Year Ending 31 December 2024

This Modern Slavery Act Transparency Statement (“Statement”) is made jointly by Fidelity National Information Services, Inc. (“FIS”) on behalf of itself and those U.K. and Australian subsidiaries listed in the Appendix (together, the “FIS Companies”) which are deemed to meet the threshold of requiring a Modern Slavery Statement under s54 of the U.K. Modern Slavery Act 2015 or s5 of the Modern Slavery Act 2018 (Cth). It outlines the steps we have taken during the financial year 2024, as well as our ongoing efforts, to mitigate the risk of modern slavery in our organization and in our supply chain through our internal policies and processes.

FIS is a financial technology company providing solutions to financial institutions, businesses, and developers. We unlock financial technology to the world across the money lifecycle underpinning the world’s financial system. Our people are dedicated to advancing the way the world pays, banks and invests, by helping our clients to confidently run, grow, and protect their businesses. Our expertise comes from decades of experience helping financial institutions and businesses of all sizes adapt to meet the needs of their customers by harnessing where reliability meets innovation in financial technology. Headquartered in Jacksonville, Florida, FIS is a member of the Fortune 500® and the Standard & Poor’s 500® Index.

Executive management and the FIS Board of Directors are committed to transparency around environmental, social and governance issues. In developing this Statement, FIS consulted the Australian FIS Company. This Statement was approved on behalf of the FIS Board of Directors.

FIS Values and Respect for Human Rights

Modern slavery is one of the gravest forms of human rights abuses in society and presents a significant global challenge. FIS takes a zero-tolerance approach to all forms of modern slavery – including child labor, forced labor, servitude, debt bondage and human trafficking – and the violation of human rights. As part of FIS’ values, we are committed to mitigating modern slavery risks across our global operations and supply chain and ensuring respect for human rights.

Our collective mission is to maximize the value of our shareholders’ investment in our company while maintaining our core values for the benefit of our colleagues, clients and communities.

Ethics and compliance are at the core of everything we do and of the culture that defines how we operate. At FIS, we aim to conduct our business in a socially responsible manner within the letter and spirit of both the law and our Code of Business Conduct and Ethics \(“Code”\). The mission of the FIS Ethics Office is to guide, inspire and support colleagues to Lead with Integrity. The FIS Business Ethics Program reflects – and reinforces – FIS’ culture and core values supporting the highest standards of openness, fairness, honesty and ethical behavior.

People are our greatest strength. The quality of our people differentiates us and personifies our leadership position. The Ethics Office expects all colleagues to act with integrity and follow the guidance in accordance with the Code, as well as all FIS policies, applicable laws and regulations in all jurisdictions in which FIS operates in an ethical and legally compliant manner.

We expect that clients, consumers, and colleagues are treated fairly with respect and dignity. FIS takes seriously our reputation for honest, fair and ethical business dealings around the world. As part of our commitment to preventing bribery and corruption, we seek out clients and business partners whose ethical standards mirror our own. Our policies and procedures are designed to prevent the Company from doing business with unethical entities and individuals. FIS' Commitment to Combating Modern Slavery

FIS is committed to combating all forms of modern slavery and human trafficking. We expressly prohibit any participation in, support of, or association with the illegal and immoral practice of trafficking in persons, child labor, forced labor and slavery. FIS is committed to ensuring the highest ethical standards in its daily business practices and will continue to act in accordance with all applicable laws. We have implemented guidelines and processes to educate and raise awareness to our colleagues on this very important topic to support them in upholding the principles in this Statement. For example, in our mandatory anti-bribery and anti-corruption training, we highlight the harms of modern slavery. We seek to ensure that our colleagues understand their responsibility to report any incident relating to modern slavery without fear of retaliation so that appropriate remedial action can be taken.

Australian FIS Company's Structure, Operations, Supply Chains and Risks

FIS Australasia Pty Ltd is a proprietary limited company incorporated in Australia (ABN 45 093 114 759) with a registered office in South Yarra, Victoria, Australia. FIS Australasia Pty Ltd is a subsidiary of FIS and does not own or control any other entities. It employs approximately 389 colleagues. Consistent with the other FIS Companies, its principal activities involve providing technology solutions for merchants, banks and capital markets firms. Its operations are limited to Australia.

FIS Australasia Pty Ltd's supply chains comprise various services, including consultants and IT providers. Supply chains for its premises comprise office security and facilities maintenance services, including those provided by landlords. A review of supply chains and operations to identify modern slavery-related risks has been conducted during this reporting period.

FIS' Policies and Practices to Help Combat Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking

Compliance with Policies – Colleagues

FIS' approach to modern slavery is groupwide. To assess and address the risks of modern slavery practice in its operations and supply chains, FIS adheres to the principles and rules of its Code and the policies and programs set out in this Statement. The Code requires that FIS and our colleagues adhere to FIS policies and all laws in the countries where FIS operates. Our commitment to human rights is informed by key principles recognized in international human rights standards such as the United Nations Universal Declaration of Human Rights. FIS' respect for human rights is guided by the principles set forth in the United Nations Universal Declaration of Human Rights. FIS considers a range of international human rights standards to inform our commitment to protecting and preserving human rights.

All colleagues are required to undertake mandatory annual anti-bribery/anti-corruption training as well as ethics and compliance training. Newly hired colleagues are required to complete these trainings as part of their onboarding process.

Compliance with Policies – Suppliers

In our search and selection process for suppliers and partners, FIS strives to identify the most qualified supplier for a specific part of our business, focusing on the supplier's reputation for quality, innovation, process optimization and cost efficiency. We select suppliers who share our core values of integrity, risk and compliance management, cooperation and collaboration. Whenever practical, FIS prioritizes building long-term and trusted relationships with suppliers located in the communities where we operate. FIS partners with outsourcing companies, including those providing facilities services. FIS acknowledges that these industries can be more prone to exploitation. To address any potential risk in our supply chains, approved third-party suppliers worldwide are required to comply with FIS' Supplier Code of Conduct, externally facing on www.fisglobal.com, which is included in our online Supplier Information Portal. We expect our suppliers to operate responsibly and support FIS in complying with FIS' standards and policies in the areas including inclusion and diversity, integrity and ethics, data security and privacy, and human rights. As part of the Supplier Code of Conduct, our suppliers are required to confirm that their employees understand and comply with our policies, including conducting labor practices in full compliance with local laws and regulations.

Our Supplier Code of Conduct also includes information on procedures to report concerns about noncompliance or potential violations to FIS. The FIS Supplier Code of Conduct includes an express prohibition against engaging in modern slavery and human trafficking, and our Procurement Contract Supplement requires that our vendors comply with the U.K. Modern Slavery Act 2015. FIS' vendor onboarding and assessment process involves specific due diligence questions for our highest-risk vendors, including whether the vendor has its own statement on anti-slavery and anti-human trafficking. FIS includes the potential for risk of slavery and trafficking as part of its country risk analysis when entering new markets.

As part of their compliance with the FIS Supplier Code of Conduct, suppliers with access to FIS systems must complete a set of mandatory trainings when access to sites or systems is granted and annually thereafter to support comprehension of and compliance with relevant FIS policies. Specific training is provided on topics including, but not limited to, information security, data protection, compliance with applicable regulations, risk management concepts, anti-bribery and anti-corruption.

Vendor Risk Management (VRM) Program

FIS recognizes the importance of risk assessment and risk mitigation in our supply chain, and we operate a comprehensive VRM program overseen by FIS' Chief Risk Officer. The VRM program includes procedures for due diligence review, including sanctions screenings, contract establishment, Payment Card Industry (PCI) compliance (where applicable) and ongoing monitoring of third-party relationships based on risk ratings.

In assessments of risks related to financial crimes and human rights issues, the VRM team collects evidence to assess suppliers' policies and controls related to anti-bribery, anti-corruption, anti-slavery, anti-trafficking, and gifts and entertainment acceptance. We use a variety of sources to gather information, and in some cases, we require suppliers to attest to compliance with FIS policies.

Through our facilitation of the Vendor Risk Management Committee, we seek to drive future process maturity and discussions around vendor risk that will lead to strengthened vendor agreements and further alignment of vendor security controls with FIS standards.

Products, Services and Customers

FIS has a number of compliance programs in place, including anti-bribery and anti-corruption, anti-money laundering, antitrust, fraud, and sanctions, which are designed to mitigate the risk of FIS products and services being used to facilitate financial crimes, including those related to modern slavery and human trafficking. In addition to the colleague reporting channels described in the “Speak Up – Reporting” section below, these compliance programs – which are designed to comply with all applicable U.S. and international laws and regulations – include policies and processes to identify and report unusual or suspicious activity, including (where relevant) raising concerns relating to modern slavery and human trafficking.

Speak Up – Reporting

FIS colleagues who learn of a violation or suspected violation of anti-human trafficking and anti-slavery laws (including, but not limited to, the U.K. Modern Slavery Act) or any other law or company policies are expected to Speak Up and report it immediately through established FIS internal reporting mechanisms to management, The People Office at the.people.office@fisglobal.com or the FIS Ethics Office at fisethicsoffice@fisglobal.com as directed in our externally facing Code. For more information on speaking up, please review our Speak Up Policy.

In addition, colleagues who wish to remain anonymous may do so 24 hours a day, seven days a week via the FIS Ethics Helpline phone service or web portal (www.fnisethics.com) as per local law. Our Ethics Helpline aims to enable employees, clients and other third parties to raise awareness of suspected, potential or actual violations of the Code, company policies or the law through multiple channels in a confidential manner. Those seeking to raise a concern can utilize the FIS Ethics Helpline via toll-free country telephone numbers or by submitting the concern on the FIS Ethics Helpline website. The Ethics Helpline provides the option to report anonymously, where permitted under local law, and is available in seven languages. The company conducts investigations into Ethics Helpline reports with a strong commitment to confidentiality and prohibits retaliation or reprisals against individuals who raise concerns.

Next Steps

FIS is committed to ensuring its zero-tolerance approach to modern slavery, human trafficking, and the violation of human rights is achieved in practice.

FIS has reviewed the updated 2025 U.K. Home Office transparency in supply chains statutory guidance. This revised guidance will inform and shape our ongoing efforts to strengthen transparency and drive continuous improvement across our operations. In 2025, we are placing a strategic emphasis on organization-wide training and awareness initiatives. These efforts are designed to embed a culture of vigilance and accountability, ensuring that the identification and reporting of any indicators of modern slavery—whether within our own operations, supply chains, or third-party engagements—remains a collective responsibility.
