The following are questions and answers provided to Certegy Inc.'s employees concerning Certegy's proposed merger with Fidelity National Information Services, Inc.

2

Certegy Employee Questions On Benefits

Q- What are the options being reviewed for current Certegy employees, if Fidelity National Information Service does not currently provide a Pension Plan to its employees?

A- Certegy has not yet made any specific decisions with respect to the Pension Plan. An integration team will be reviewing the benefit plans of Certegy and Fidelity to determine whether any changes should be made to the plans for each group of companies. Any proposed changes to the Pension Plan will be reviewed in connection with proposed changes to the 401(k) Plan and to the entire compensation and benefit package of employees.

Q - Will the Pension fund accumulated to date by Certegy employees remain with the third party administrator – Mellon Bank?

A- No specific decisions have been made with respect to the Pension Plan. The integration team will be reviewing whether any changes are recommended with respect to the Pension Plan including with respect to the third party administrator.

Q- For those of us that contribute to the 401(k) and annually receive Certegy stock, will those shares be eligible for the $3.75 per share payout upon closing of the merger? I'm worried that they will not because they are Certegy Stock "Fund" - - not actually Certegy stock shares.

A- If a portion of your 401(k) plan account is invested in the Certegy Stock Fund, your account will be indirectly affected by the payment of the dividend. For each share of Certegy stock held by the Certegy Stock Fund, the Certegy Stock Fund will receive the $3.75 dividend. However, the price of Certegy shares should adjust downward to reflect the dividend payment. If the market price of Certegy shares decreases by exactly $3.75 per share to reflect the special dividend, this will be a net transaction, and the total value in the Certegy Stock Fund (and thus, each participant's account invested in the Certegy Stock Fund) will have the same value as before the dividend payment. Please note that factors other than the special dividend may affect the actual market price of Certegy shares.
